

SINKING STEAMER NEBRASKAN ADDS TO INTENSE FEELING AT TORNADO KILLS ONE AND INJURES FIVE AT TALHINA, OKLAHOMA

DOUBT AS TO WHETHER THE SHIP HIT MINE OR WAS TORPEDOED BY GERMANS CAUSES RETICENCE ON PART OF THE WASHINGTON OFFICIALS.

WILSON READS ALL REPORTS

No Lives Lost, but Danger to Neutral Vessels Is Considered Serious by the Government—May Be Difficulty in Determining Cause of Damage to Vessel.

Washington, May 26.—The course of the United States government in the case of the American steamer Nebraska, damaged off the coast of Ireland, was undermined tonight because officials were without definite information as to whether the ship was torpedoed or struck a mine.

The Nebraska, Captain Green, from Liverpool, May 24, for Delany, Ireland, was torpedoed yesterday by a submarine at a point forty miles west southwest of Fastnet, off the south coast of Ireland.

The sea was calm at the time. The crew at once took to the boats and stood by the steamer. It was soon ascertained that the Nebraska was not seriously damaged. She had been struck forward and her foreholds were full of water. The crew returned on board and got the vessel under way. No lives were lost among the crew. The Nebraska did not carry any passengers.

Immediately she was struck the Nebraska began calling for help by wireless. Bowhead received the wireless communication at 9 a. m. yesterday from Crookhaven.

The Nebraska is owned by the American Hawaiian Steamship Co. of New York and is of 2,821 ton net register. On her last eastward trip she left New York May 7 for Liverpool. Messages from Ambassador Page and Consul General Skinner at London transmitted the report of the British admiralty that the vessel had been torpedoed but officials noted with much interest the captain's report to his own government that he was not sure whether the Nebraska was hit by a torpedo or a mine.

Wilson Reads Report.

President Wilson himself read all the official and unofficial dispatches. In view of the positive position which the United States has taken on the subject of submarine activity in the war zone and the delicacy of the situation with Germany arising out of the Lusitania disaster the story of the Nebraska's experiences is awaited with unusual interest. Should it develop clearly that she was torpedoed without warning an aggravating circumstance will have been added to an already tense situation, notwithstanding the fact that no lives were lost.

Germany has not yet announced that she regretted the damage done to the Nebraska and that she would pay compensation for the loss of the vessel. The United States in its note of May 13 pointed out that "expressions of regret and offers of reparation in case of the destruction of neutral ships sunk by mistake, while they may satisfy international obligations, if no loss of life results, cannot justify or excuse a practice the natural and necessary effect of which is to subject neutral nations and neutral persons to new and immeasurable risks."

Officials Are Reticent.

Officials here were reticent to discuss the case pending full reports. The United States is in a position able to fix responsibility for the accident to the American cotton ships Carib and Evelyn and naval officers say it will be a difficult task to determine from the reports whether the Nebraska's hull was struck by a mine or a torpedo. An investigation, nevertheless, will be ordered when the ship reaches port. A similar inquiry was made by naval attaches when the American ship Gulfight reached port and it was determined that a German submarine was responsible. There have been intimations since then, however, that Germany in her reply would deny responsibility for the wrecking of the Gulfight.

So far as the state department is informed there is no British mine field near where the Nebraska was struck. The fact that the Nebraska was under charter to a British concern, partly American owned, prior to sailing on her last voyage, was so stated by officials who would not affect her status. She carried no contraband and was engaged in no hostile service, being bound for Hampton Roads to take on coal for the United States navy to be carried as freight to San Francisco.

ACCOMPANIED BY HEAVY RAINS WHICH EXTEND OVER STATE AND KANSAS—SEVERAL PERSONS CARRIED DISTANCES BY SEVERE WINDS.

KATY TRACKS ARE UNDER WATER

Railroad Schedules Are Disarranged. Many Towns Fear Communication Will Be Shut Off—Rivers Rising. Windstorm at Larned—Crops Are Damaged.

Hugo, Okla., May 26.—Captain W. A. Welch, a Confederate veteran, was killed and five persons injured in a tornado at Talhina, seventy-five miles northeast of here this afternoon. Eight business houses and twelve residences were destroyed and several other buildings considerably damaged. The monetary loss is placed at about $50,000.

The tornado, which was accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, struck Talhina about 3:30 o'clock with terrific force. Several persons, according to meagre reports reaching Hugo, were picked up and carried, in many instances fifty yards by the wind. Wire communication with Talhina is badly interrupted.

Heavy Rains at Tulsa.

Tulsa, Okla., May 26.—A two and a half inch rain which fell in Tulsa county in three hours this afternoon has disabled telegraph and telephone communication, washed out more than 500 feet of an interurban track to Sand Springs and several hundred feet of both Katy and Midland Valley tracks. Traffic on these lines has been suspended. Two 55,000 barrel oil tanks on the Prairie Oil and Gas company tank farm near Turlington were struck by lightning this morning and are a total loss.

W. E. Williams, general manager of the Katy, on a special train is en route to Sand Springs, five miles from Tulsa, together with 500 delegates to the state convention of druggists, meeting here. The tracks of two railroads and an interurban connecting Sand Springs with Tulsa have been partially washed away by the high waters.

The Arkansas river, which started to recede at this point this morning, is reported by the government weather bureau tonight to be rising eight inches an hour and hundreds of persons along the river front near here have been given warning to move, in anticipation of a several foot rise before daylight.

Thousands of dollars damage has been done to wheat and oat crops in Eastern Oklahoma counties. Kansas Gets Rains. Topeka, Kan., May 26.—Heavy rains were reported all over Kansas today and many small streams are rising. A windstorm struck Larned this afternoon, damaging a few small buildings. It probably was the same storm which struck a Santa Fe passenger train between Larned and Great Bend and unroofed the baggage car, but doing no other damage. Electric storms were general over the state and numerous reports were received of livestock killed. Railroads suffered slightly from washed out tracks and delayed trains.

Streams Are Rising.

Wichita, Kan., May 26.—Continued rains and rising streams in Northern Oklahoma and Southern Kansas are playing havoc with railroad schedules and causing serious property damage, according to the reports received here. Blackwell, Ponca City and Tonkawa, Okla., fear they will be cut off from the outside world by the flood, three out of four railroad lines into Blackwell already being out of commission through washouts.

Probe Into Labor Conditions in Porto Rico by Commission

Washington, May 26.—Labor conditions in Porto Rico and in the cotton industry of the south were discussed today before the industrial relations commission.

David Clark of Charlotte, N. C., editor of a textile magazine, submitted a statement to the commission dealing in detail charges concerning child labor in the south made recently by Dr. A. J. McKelway of the National Child Labor commission.

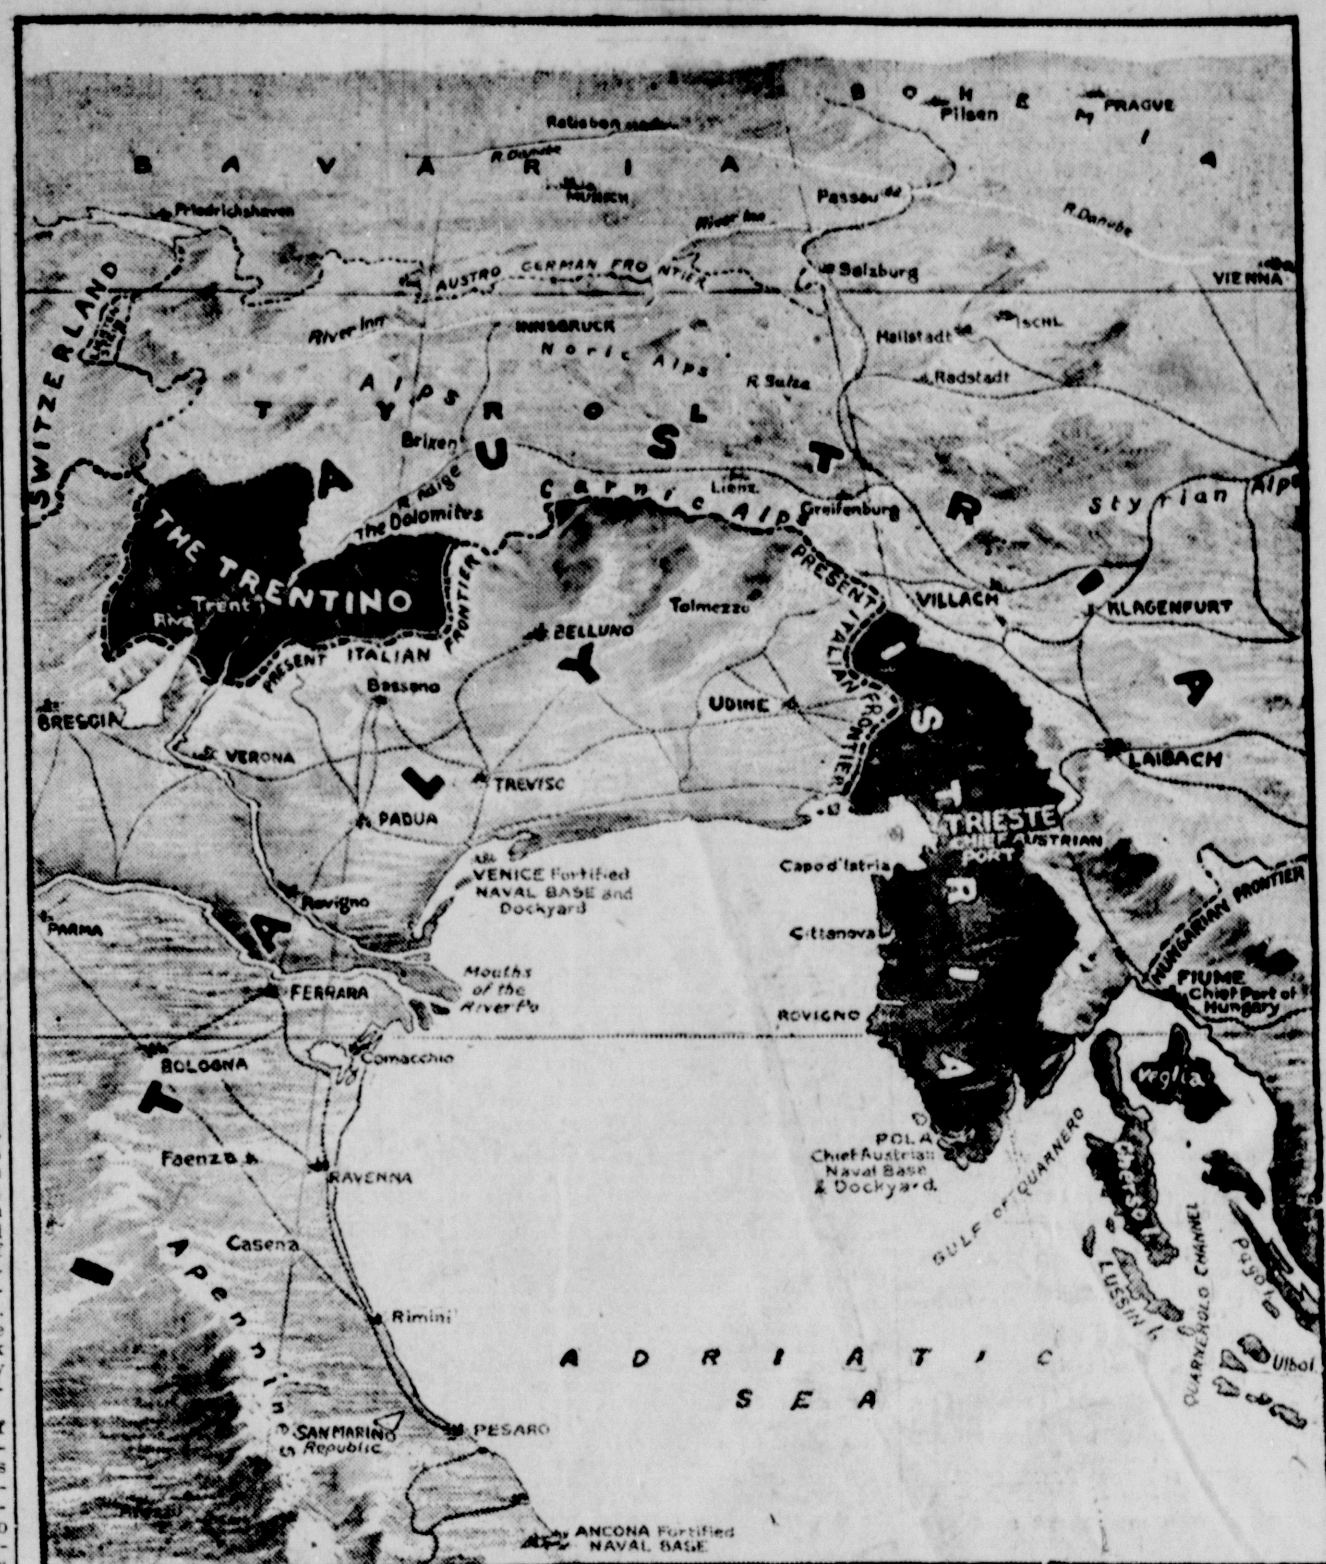

P. Riveria Martinez, president of the Cigarmakers Union of Porto Rico, and Santiago Iglesias, organizer for the American Federation of Labor in Porto Rico, presented affidavits alleging unfair and brutal treatment of workmen in labor disputes on the island. J. C. Bills Jr., Porto Rican commissioner of labor, testified conditions were bad but that every effort was being made to improve them.

Samuel Gompers is expected to testify tomorrow as the commission was unable to adjourn today.

E. B. Hulén Killed Near Pilaes May 24

Austin, Tex., May 26.—Adjutant General Hutchings today received a telegram from Ranger Ira Cline, dated at Marfa, announcing the killing of E. B. Hulén, near Pilaes on May 24. His brother, former Adjutant General John A. Hulén, wired to have the body shipped to Greenfield for burial. General Hutchings also received a message from Sheriff J. J. Allen of Terrell county offering assistance, and after conferring with Governor Ferguson, it was decided to withhold acceptance of the offer until additional particulars are received. Captain Monroe Fox is now en route to Marfa.

Austria's Peril in Alps and Adriatic with Unredeemed Italian Provinces

"The just aspirations of Italy," in the historic phrase of Signor Salandra, are shown here at a glance. "Italia Irredenta," or unredeemed Italy, includes the Trentino and Istria, where the Italian race and language largely predominate. The Trentino consisted of the old bishopric of Trent, while Istria formed part of the republic of Venice, overthrown by Napoleon. Subsequently, on Napoleon's downfall, both Istria and the Trentino passed into the hands of Austria. In 1866, when Austria was compelled to give up the province of Venice, she retained both Istria and the Trentino, and ever since the unredeemed provinces have been a ranking wound in the side of Italy. The "Italia Irredenta" provinces are shown dark and lettered in white.

BIG LOSS REVENUES BY 5 PER CENT LAW

CUSTOMS COURT SUSTAINS TARIFF LAW—GOVERNMENT MUST REFUND.

Washington, May 26.—The so-called "five per cent" clause of the tariff law granting that reduction of duties on goods imported in American ships was sustained today by the customs court which held also that the 5 per cent rebate must be granted on all goods imported in ships of those countries with which the United States has "favored nation" treaties. As such treaties exist with the principal countries of the world the effect of the decision is to practically reduce the customs revenue 5 per cent.

If the decision is sustained by the supreme court of the United States, to which it will be appealed, approximately $15,000,000 in duties already collected must be refunded.

In a dissenting opinion Judge Devries pointed out that the majority decision would mean that goods imported in about 5,500 foreign vessels of favored nations shall receive this reduction in customs duties. Five per cent of the estimated customs revenue of the fiscal year would exceed $11,000,000 and in years to come this total would grow to even greater proportions. Moreover it was pointed out that the decision, if it stands the test in the supreme court is retroactive to the extent that it applies to importations into the United States since approval of the Underwood-Simmons law more than two years ago, including goods entered in bonds and subsequently withdrawn without payment of this rebate.

Has Profound Effect. Government officials realize that the decision may have a profound effect upon the fiscal policy of the United States.

At present the actual working balance in the treasury is under $15,000,000, though possibly $45,000,000 is available to be added to this if necessary. With an announced deficit in the postal revenue and no increase in internal revenue or customs receipts now in sight, talk of the necessity for an issue of Panama Canal bonds was reviewed in view of the prospect of reduced customs revenues and the necessity of refunding millions already collected. The payment of some $80,000,000 into the treasury due from the income tax, however, is counted on to delay any such emergency for several months.

Today's decision of the customs court in part sustained the ruling of the board of general appraisers and in part reversed that body. In its findings regarding goods from abroad the court held that merchandise from Cuba is entitled to a reduction of 20 per cent ad valorem as provided by the Cuban preferential treaty with the United States.

BATTLESHIP TEXAS AIDS IN RESCUE WORK

RUSHES TO ASSISTANCE OF THE RYNDAM, WHICH WAS IN COLLISION.

All of Seventy Passengers, Many of Whom Were Americans, Were Saved.

New York, May 26.—Seventy-seven passengers saved from possible death when the Holland American liner Ryndam collided early today with the tramp steamer Joseph J. Cuneo off Nantucket shoals. Lightship were brought safely to port tonight by the battleship South Carolina which participated in the rescue.

The Ryndam conveyed to Ambrose lightship by one battleship. Texas, reached the harbor before her passengers arrived and anchored down the bay. She was drawing thirty-six feet of water and much of her cargo, containing foodstuffs for Holland valued at $1,000,000 was destroyed. A hole in her side below the water line about the width of a plate was stopped with canvas. The Cuneo, damaged, was proceeding under her own steam to this port.

The steamer Thomas J. Millard, carrying friends and relatives of passengers and officers of the Holland American liner, went down the bay to meet the South Carolina to take on board the rescued passengers. The Ryndam left here for Rotterdam yesterday with fifty-four cabin and twenty-three third class passengers. The crew numbered about 150. The Cuneo left Boston last night for Baracoa, Cuba. Shortly before 4 o'clock this morning in a heavy fog the steamers rammed each other. The wireless operator of the Cuneo sent out a "help" signal, which was picked up by several Atlantic fleet battleships.

The Louisiana, South Carolina and Texas rushed to the scene. Before their arrival the passengers and part of the Ryndam's crew had been transferred to the Cuneo. The fog cleared about 7 o'clock and the sailors assisted in re-transferring the passengers to the South Carolina.

Most of the passengers of the Ryndam were foreigners returning home. Some were Americans.

The Ryndam will await high water tomorrow before proceeding to her Hoboken docks.

BRITISH BATTLESHIP IS SUNK BY TORPEDO

THE TRIUMPH IS ADDED TO LIST OF LOST VESSELS IN DARDANELLES.

London, May 26.—The British battleship Triumph has been sunk in the Dardanelles. This official announcement was made tonight.

The disaster to the Triumph is described in a brief statement by the admiralty, which says that while operating in support of the Australian and New Zealand forces on the shore of the Gallipoli peninsula yesterday, the Triumph was torpedoed by a submarine and sank shortly afterward. The majority of the officers and men, including the captain and commander, are reported saved. The submarine was chased by destroyers and patrolling small craft until dark.

The battleship Triumph was built at Barrow in 1902 for the Chilean government, but was purchased by Great Britain in 1903.

Since the present war broke out the Triumph has been in operation in both Far Eastern and European waters. As flagship of the British Asiatic squadron she participated in the bombardment of the German base of Tsingtau, China, last October and was reported damaged by the shell fire of the German forts.

After the fall of Tsingtau the Triumph returned to European waters and began operations with the allied fleet against the Dardanelles. In the latter part of April the Triumph bombarded the Turkish trenches on the western end of the Gallipoli peninsula and afterward went into the Dardanelles to search the trench from a different angle. Here she came under the fire of a Turkish howitzer battery on the Asiatic coast which dropped sixteen shells around her and threw three missiles on board. Little damage was done by the shells however, and only two men, a stoker and a blue-jacket, were wounded. The battleship silenced the Turkish battery before retiring.

A few days later while landing operations were proceeding the Triumph with other warships in addition to covering the landing, bombarded the forts in the Dardanelles to prevent reinforcements reaching the Turks from the Sea of Marmara. The Triumph was credited in the official reports with having set fire to the town of Mardos during this bombardment.

The Triumph which was commanded by Captain Maurice E. Fitzmaurice was a vessel of 11,985 tons and of 12,500 horsepower. Her crew of officers and men in time of peace numbered about 700 men. The vessel carried four 10-inch, fourteen 7.5-inch guns and fourteen 14-pounders and four 6-pounders. In addition she carried two 18-inch torpedo tubes.

The Triumph was 436 feet long and had a speed of about twenty knots.

ANOTHER SESSION IS GOVERNOR FERGUSON NOT LIKELY, HOUSE REMOVES STAMPS PASSES ITS BILLS FROM THE PEN BOARD

FINALLY FINISHES APPROPRIATIONS—ONLY MISCELLANEOUS NOW REMAINS—SENATE PASSES DEPARTMENTAL MEASURE AFTER ADDING HALF MILLION.

FREE CONFERENCE MUST ADJUST

Is a Difference of Three Millions Between Appropriations of the Two Bodies—Bill to Exempt Workers on County Roads From the Eight-hour Law Passes.

Austin, Tex., May 26.—Chances of another special session to follow on the heels of this one grew slimmer tonight when the house passed finally the last of its appropriation bills and sent it to the senate where only the miscellaneous appropriations bill remains for final action in that body. Final passage was given by the senate to the departmental bill after almost half a million had been added to it making the total exactly three million. The biggest item added was $300,000 for a new building for the general land office of Texas, to house also the agricultural and warehouse departments, the building to be first proof and three stories high not counting its basement.

It is provided in the bill that it be located on a lot owned by the state on the opposite side of the street from the present office and not on the capitol grounds or the park fronting the executive mansion where the temporary capitol stood while the big granite building was being erected. There is a difference in the amounts appropriated by house and senate bills of about $2,000,000, which free conference committees must adjust before Friday midnight if another special session at this time is to be averted.

The senate educational bill carries $1,300,000 more than the house bill and the house miscellaneous bill, passed today, is more than a million and a half less than the senate bill, which includes big amounts for penitentiary debts, which were not allowed in the house. The wide difference can be adjusted in the forty-eight hours is not believed possible by many of the members of the two houses. Unless they are adjusted there will be an immediate call for another session.

Additions to Department Bill.

Other additions made to senate departmental bills were substitution of $98,860 a year to agricultural department for committee recommendation of $11,190 a year and making state warehouse commission appropriation $58,800 a year instead of $1,400 a year as proposed by the committee bill. This last change was a substitute by West-brook who said even if he does not favor Peter Radford, he wants the warehouse bill to be given a fair trial and he challenged those who are always talking about helping the farmer to come to the front and make good by supporting his amendment giving the warehouse board enough money to make a reasonable test of its value and benefits. He won, although "Uncle Peter" was a stonewaller for more than an hour's vehement oratory.

The long debate over the bill to exempt workers on county roads from operation of the eight-hour law ended after McNealus had made a vehement speech against its passage charging it was in the interest of contractors and would prove an entering wedge to break down the eight-hour law. Austin asserted the farmers of the state are favorable to the bill and do not want an eight-hour limitation placed on farm work or work on county roads which they say the taxes to build. The bill finally passed fourteen to thirteen.

McNealus made strenuous objection to the appropriation and denies his antagonism toward Radford inspired him, saying he had opposed the measure from the start even at the time when Radford himself was against and had written a letter condemning it.

Astin Opposes Appropriation.

Astin made a strong speech in opposition to the entire appropriation lining up as he did the original opponents of the warehouse plan, and charging its operation will take millions from the farmers and do them no benefit.

The Westbrook amendment won, 15 to 12, and the bill was finally passed 24 to 2, the negatives being Connor and Sutor.

The house miscellaneous appropriation bill passed finally carrying $231,309.

Maddox tried to kill off the $12,500 appropriation for the Texas exhibit at the Panama Frisco exposition, but failed.

A letter was sent up to the senate and read from Jesse H. Jones of Houston, congratulating the senate on its refusal to pass the Gibson bill. Mr. Jones praised the Robertson insurance law and said it permitted outside companies to do business in Texas on favorable terms.

Senator Page introduced a bill providing for the selection of an appropriately engraved stone to be placed in

PROCLAMATION ALLEGES COMMISSIONER HAS BEEN GUILTY OF ACTS CALCULATED TO DISRUPT DISCIPLINE OF PENITENTIARY SYSTEM OF THE STATE.

USES BAD BUSINESS JUDGMENT

Charges He Sold Corn Raised on the State Lands at Sixty Cents a Bushel When He Knew the Board Would Have to Purchase the Article Later at Ninety Cents.

Austin, Tex., May 26.—By a proclamation issued today by Governor Ferguson, W. O. Stamps was removed as a member of the board of prison commissioners. The proclamation alleges that he "has been guilty of acts calculated to disrupt discipline in the penitentiary system of the state."

It is also alleged in the proclamation that Commissioner Stamps "agreed to the sale of many thousands of bushels of corn raised in the prison system which he well knew at the time would be needed in cultivation of the penitentiary farms and agreed to the sale of same at approximately sixty cents a bushel, when by the use of ordinary business precautions he knew or must have known that the system must within a few months have to pay approximately 90 cents a bushel."

It is also charged that Stamps has agreed "to the sale of many thousands of gallons of syrup, needed in the feeding of the prisoners of the penitentiary system at twenty cents a gallon, when by the use of ordinary and reasonable business precautions he knew or could have known that the prison system would have to and is now being required to purchase new syrup at approximately forty cents a gallon."

Continuing the proclamation says: "Whereas, the presence of the said W. O. Stamps, on the board of prison commissioners is antagonistic to the proper exercise of the powers of said board and will cause the system to sustain large financial loss."

"Therefore, bearing in mind the above facts, I, James E. Ferguson, by virtue of the power vested in me under the constitution and laws of the state of Texas, do hereby remove the said W. O. Stamps from his office as a member of the board of prison commissioners, so that he be no longer permitted to exercise the functions of that office or draw compensation from the state therefor."

The proclamation is duly signed by the governor and was filed in the secretary of state's department.

Taft Says Clayton Act Is Detrimental

New York, May 26.—Former President William Howard Taft in an address tonight at the annual banquet of the National Association of Manufacturers, severely criticized the Clayton act and the federal trade commission act as "detrimental to the business interests of the country" and denounced the leaders of the American Federation of Labor for exercising a power "that became excessive and detrimental to the public welfare and the good of society."

Professor Taft was co-speaker with Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, who declared that "the greatest menace of American progress is the professional baiting of big enterprises."

Engineers Re-elect William B. Prenter

Cleveland, May 26.—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in convention here, completed its roster of salaried officers today with the reelection of Wm. B. Prenter as first grand engineer, which includes the duties of secretary-treasurer.

Edward C. Corrigan of Hillsboro, Texas, was chosen assistant grand chief engineer to serve six years. The engineers voted to make Cleveland the permanent convention city.

Temple Wants the Commission Form

Temple, May 26.—Citizens of Temple have unanimously signed petitions calling a mass meeting for Carnegie library for the night of May 27 to consider the substitution of the commission form of government for the present mayor-alderman form. In the event that the commission idea is favored the next step will be the creation of a charter commission to make the needed amendments to the city charter.

Woodmen Circle at Gatesville. Gatesville, May 26.—Mrs. Thomas of Fort Worth, district organizer, organized a Woodmen circle here last night with sixteen charter members. Mrs. Eva Larsen was elected guardian and Miss Emma Cooper clerk.

Italy Declares Blockade Against Austrian Coast

Rome, via Paris, May 26.—The Italian government believing Austria-Hungary is utilizing several ports on the Albanian coast for secret commissariat departments, declared a blockade today against "that portion of the Austro-Hungarian coast comprised between the Italian frontier on the north to the Montenegrin boundary on the south, including all island ports, anchorages and bays and also the Albanian coast from the Montenegrin limits on the north to and including Cape Klepal on the south."

The declaration adds: "Vessels belonging to friendly and neutral powers will be allowed sufficient time to leave the zone, the amount of time to be determined by the chief of the naval forces."

"Measures will be taken in conformity with the rules of international law and treaties in existence against all vessels endeavoring to cross, or which succeed in crossing the line marked by Cape Otrante and Cape Klepal."

STRONG EFFORTS TO SAVE LEO M. FRANK ENGLAND'S COAST

AFFIDAVIT BY HIS WIFE DETAIL-
ING ACTIONS THE DAY OF MURDER.

HE MAY APPEAR AS WITNESS
Plan to Bring Him Before Prison
Commission in Hearing
Monday.

Atlanta, Ga., May 26.—An affidavit by Mrs. Leo M. Frank, detailing what she knows of her husband's movements and actions on the day of the Mary Phagan murder, will be presented before the state prison commission at the hearing here next Monday on Frank's application for commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment. This was announced today by former Congressman Wm. Howard, who will have charge of Frank's petition. Mrs. Frank was not permitted under the state law, to testify at the trial. Frank also will be tendered as a witness by his counsel, it was stated, but whether he will be heard will depend upon the commission's ruling.

A member of the commission stated today that no applicant for a pardon or commutation ever had been allowed to appear in such proceedings and he was not prepared to say whether the precedent would be broken in Frank's case.

Efforts are being made on behalf of Frank to induce a majority of the jurors who convicted him to sign a clemency petition. A movement urging clemency also is under way among the ministers of Atlanta.

Another development today was a report submitted to Governor Slaton and the prison commission by Albert S. Osborne, a handwriting expert of New York, in which Osborne declared his belief that Frank had nothing to do with the "murder" of the girl beside the body of the Phagan girl, James Connel, a negro, testified at the trial that he wrote these notes at Frank's dictation.

It was learned tonight that Solicitor General Doherty, who prosecuted Frank had filed with the commission a protest against a commutation of sentence.

The commission today received a petition from the Georgia Society of New York through its board of governors urging that Frank's sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

ANOTHER SESSION IS NOT LIKELY, HOUSE PASSES ITS BILLS

The Washington monument at Washington, and creating a commission to have charge of the matter and making an appropriation. The bill was passed a few days ago by Senator McNeelis to give appropriation bills the right of way was defeated by a vote of 17 to 10.

The house passed to engrossment the bill providing for the creation of a tax commission to equalize tax rates in Texas and also to equalize assessments; also engrossed house bill providing for the creating of a medical milk commission.

The house refused to adopt an amendment appropriating $1,000,000 to pay county witnesses' fees in felony cases, the amendment still pending for the repeal of this law.

Night sessions were ordered by both branches.

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

A Physician's Advice.

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce. While on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all a matter of the nature of the food. It isn't Nature's way at all.

The thin folks "starve" because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "ray" there. Pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What they need is some food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and powerful flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective. A single tablet eaten with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by Fowles-Kelly and other good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

ADIRAL FLETCHER WITH A WEAKER FLEET UNABLE TO DEFEND.

BASE ON CHESAPEAKE BAY
Department Gives Statement of War
Game on the Atlantic
Seaboard.

Washington, May 26.—Superiority of the "enemy" in units representing fast and heavily armed battle cruisers, together with weather conditions favorable for an attack, brought failure to Admiral Fletcher's defense of the Atlantic seaboard in the naval war game which closed yesterday with Rear Admiral Beatty's invaders in a position to establish a base on Chesapeake Bay.

The story of the game as told in reports of the commanding officers to the navy department today revealed that Admiral Beatty with a theoretically stronger force, engaged the main body of the defending fleet last Thursday and destroyed about half of Admiral Fletcher's scouts, while easily eluding the superior dreadnoughts. Then when Admiral Fletcher drew off to guard against a movement against New England or New York, the "enemy" swept southward, prepared to establish a base of operations by landing an expedition from his transports at a point on the east coast northward with sufficient force to deal with any squadrons the defenders might send against him.

Admiral Fletcher's defensive campaign was described as a good one but he was handicapped not only by the weather and lack of speedy scouts with long range guns but by inability to have gunboats on the scene when the final test against the enemy came.

The department tonight issued the following statement summarizing reports on the maneuvers:

"The war game problem which has just been played off the Atlantic coast had for its purpose the training of the officers of the fleet. The problem on the part of the Atlantic fleet was, in brief, to prevent a more powerful fleet than our own from establishing a base at some point between Eastport, Maine, and Cape Hatteras, from which to invade the country. Admiral Fletcher's plan of defense was excellent, but was not successful owing to weather conditions and the marked superiority of the enemy in scouts."

The attacking Red fleet under Rear Admiral Beatty approached at a distance of several hundred miles by a line of fast scouts spaced at intervals and covered the front of the main body of the Blue fleet with a line of battle cruisers and armored cruisers. These Red scouts and cruisers had the problem of not only locating the Blue fleet but also of preventing any concentration of ships from the Blue fleet from attacking the Red transports following behind the main Red fleet. These transports were to affect a foothold on the coast.

"The advance force came into contact after daylight on the 20th. Within a few hours about half the Blue scouts had been put actually to rest. The most effective work against them being done by the enemy's battle cruisers, whose high speed and long range enabled them to pick off the slower and weaker Blue scouts almost at will, at the same time eluding the supporting dreadnoughts."

Fletcher withdrew northward, using his remaining scouts to pick off the slower and weaker Blue scouts. The Red fleet would pass it to a contemplated landing on the New England coast. This was as a matter of fact Admiral Beatty's plan, although Admiral Fletcher had actually located the Red fleet. The Blue fleet succeeded in protecting this region and forcing Admiral Beatty to seek an opening to the southward.

Admiral Beatty's plan was to hold his main force well out to sea and following up every move of the defending fleet, with his scouts. Thus one fleet was able to make every move with knowledge of the enemy's whereabouts, while the other was in the dark.

When convinced no opening was to be expected along the New England coast, Admiral Beatty turned around the flank of the defending force, starting out about noon of the 24th for the Chesapeake.

During the night of the 24th Admiral Fletcher moved southward from Cape Cod, where he had remained for three days. News of this move almost immediately reached Admiral Beatty, who was at that time heading for Cape Henry, over 100 miles ahead of the Blue fleet.

At noon on the 25th Admiral Beatty turned back with most of his heavy ships to meet the Blue fleet his transports in the meantime continuing southward with a strong escort. As the force with which he met the Blue fleet was decidedly more powerful than that which Admiral Fletcher could bring against it and as the submarines of the defending force were not near enough to take part in the engagement, the umpire decided that Admiral Beatty's forces could without difficulty seize a base on or near the Chesapeake, that the Red fleet had been successful in its object and that the strategical maneuvers were at an end."

Friedsam the Grocer Extending Business

"Get our prices and we will get your order" is the motto used by I. W. Friedsam in his advertisements. The grocer has extended his business and now has four up-to-date grocery stores scattered over Waco instead of only one, which he had when he entered the business.

Mr. Friedsam makes a specialty of his home cured meat and vegetables which he grows on his own truck farm. His original store is at 504-510 South Eleventh and from there he has branched out to Eighteenth and Ross, Eighth and Webster, and 317 North Eleventh street.

Stetler Drug Store to Be Open All Night

Waco is to have an all night drug store again. O. K. Stetler, whose drug store is at the corner of Eighth and Austin avenue, just across from the Riggins, has decided to keep his establishment open all night, so that those wishing medicines or drug supplies during the night may be enabled to secure them.

All night drug stores have proven successful in practically every one of the larger cities of the country, and Wacoans will be pleased to learn that this city is to have a similar establishment.

FACTS REVEALED ABOUT VITALITAS

REPEATED ANALYSIS BY EX-
PERT CHEMISTS PROVE CER-TAIN POINTS BEYOND QUESTION.

There are constant inquiries from people who want to know something of the scientific nature of Vitalitas. The question is asked whether its effectiveness is due entirely to its chemical properties which include iron, sodium, magnesium, sulphur, aluminum and traces of other minerals, or whether there is some unknown added force of nature that makes it so quickly responsive.

It may be stated that the ingredients of Vitalitas, as compounded within the earth, have a new meaning in chemistry and medicine. Vitalitas must be considered as a whole and not with respect to its individual properties as science values such properties. As blended by nature, Vitalitas is new to the chemists and some of its medicinal effects cannot be completely accounted for. This is amply proven when an effort is made to build up Vitalitas synthetically. The ingredients may be added in exact proportion but the resultant compound is as different from Vitalitas as an incandescent light is from sunlight. Salts of iron, magnesium and the other component parts have a new meaning as they are found blended by nature in Vitalitas. It is the most effective known tonic and corrective, and sufferers throughout the south are daily finding new health and strength in its use.

King Constantine's Condition the Same

Athens, May 26, 10:20 p. m., via London, May 27, 3:37 p. m.—The general condition of King Constantine tonight was stationary. His temperature was 104 and his pulse 96. The condition of the king has resulted in much religious fervor. Prayers are being said everywhere for his recovery. The religious feeling was intensified today by the conveyance of the icon of the Holy Virgin to the palace. The streets were lined with silent crowds.

AMERICANS KILLED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

BODIES ARE SHOT TO PIECES IN THE BIG BEND
SECTION.

Robbed of Everything and Criminals
Then Cross the Mexican Boundary.

Alpine, Tex., May 26.—The bodies of Gene Hulen, a Texas Ranger, and of Joe Sitter, an American river guard, slain by alleged Mexican bandits Monday night, were found today near the Mexican border in the Big Bend section of Texas.

The bodies were recovered near the Rio Grande about forty miles west of here, and were taken to Valentine, Texas, today.

A stack of empty cartridges beside the bodies showed that the two Americans had made a long fight. Their deaths make five American peace officers killed in this section by alleged Mexican outlaws in the past year.

The fight near Valentine occurred Monday night at a place about four miles from the river on the Texas side of the river. The Big Bend section is sparsely settled and there has been for years more or less continuous trouble there with cattle thieves and petty outlaws, who used the Mexican side of the river as a refuge.

COULD NOT WORK LACKED AMBITION

R. E. Anderson, Traveling
Man, Well Known Here,
Makes Statement.

To the skeptical individual that wants to be "shown," the following signed statement from Mr. R. E. Anderson, who lives at No. 269 Silver street, Akron, Ohio, will prove of interest. Mr. Anderson is a traveling salesman for a prominent Akron firm and is well known and highly esteemed here. He said:

"Having suffered from chronic indigestion and tried so many preparations which did me no good, I became skeptical of anything really helping me. Finally I was persuaded to try Plant Juice by a friend who had been benefited by it. I find that it has done all that was claimed for it. Being on the road continually and being compelled to eat all kinds of food, I lost weight, felt miserable and finally became a chronic dyspeptic, absolutely worn out and could not work with any spirit or ambition. I noticed almost instant improvement after beginning the use of Plant Juice. I continued to improve until today I am practically physically back into my old form and have no one to thank for this recovery to health but Plant Juice. For I am now cured of my illness. Plant Juice is sold in Waco at W. B. Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store, where it is being introduced and its merits explained."

You naturally begin to think of Summer Clothes. We have a line of spring and summer fabrics that is the talk of this town. We should like to have the chance to show you. that the two officers had been literally shot to pieces and their heads afterwards crushed with rocks. The bodies were in such condition that they could not be brought to Marfa, but were interred on McGehee ranch. The Mexicans had robbed their victims of everything even to their boots and coats, and their saddle bags and horses. The official report says the band of Mexicans numbering thirty-five, who had been on a notorious outlaw, escaped into Mexico.

States and to the further discount of 5 per cent from that amount.

Conflict With Existing Treaties.
The government, importers and American and foreign ship owners were parties to the suit. Former Attorney General McReynolds held the clause inoperative because of the conflict with existing treaties and in conformity with this opinion the revenue has never been paid in any case although importers accepted the assessed duties in many instances under protest.

The main plea on the part of the American ship owners was that the favored nation treaties were in fact inoperative. In this connection the court decision said:

"By no department of the government has there been any construction repudiated or denounced as unconstitutional or denied force and effect as executory merely so far as we can ascertain. To now hold them invalid for any reason is to benefit these circumstances would be little less than usurpation. Fortunately the duty of repudiating them can by no stretch of authority rest with us, for the very status of which we are now construing declares in effect that they shall not thereby be impaired. It is a matter of much gratification to know that the executive departments of our government uncompromisingly insist that our treaties shall be observed by us in their dissenting opinion, Judge Devries said:

"It is certain that there are not over fifty American vessels. Did congress in order to benefit these fifty vessels and such as might in the course of years, necessarily fall under this interpretation, register under our flag, immediately give an equal bounty to 5,500 other vessels? If so, where was the 'favor to our ships'?"

Presbyterians Will Meet at Orlando, Fla., in Next Assembly

Newport News, Va., May 26.—The general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the South today selected Orlando, Fla., as the next meeting place and approved the suggestion in a telegram from the Presbyterian church in the United States in session in Rochester, N. Y., that the differences over the Lafayette church case from New Orleans be amicably settled.

The assembly also approved the action of the synod of Arkansas in depositing the Rev. L. P. Field from his pastorate and prohibiting him from again preaching in that synod's territory. The case was brought before the assembly by Mr. Field on appeal.

The Lafayette has been followed with unusual interest by Southern Presbyterians and the action of the northern assembly in paving the way to amicable settlement was noted with gratification.

"Daisy Chain" Issued.
The "Daisy Chain," the annual publication of the Waco high school was out yesterday and is an unusually attractive little booklet. Consisting of eighty pages, it contains photographs of each member of the class, the student organizations and various articles of interest to the students who graduate this spring. Of especial merit are the verses by Adrienne Wilkes, the class poet, entitled, "The Legend of Hueso Springs." The publication as a whole is one that would do credit to the average college.

CITY PARK ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED AT SUNSET

It goes without saying that an immense crowd will be out at Cameron park this afternoon. First the club women will be out for their social session and induction of officers. This will immerse into the grand ensemble which celebrates the first anniversary of our great city park. The idea of the Mesdames Fay and Bird Hoffmann introduces the dancing on the green, something in great favor in England. This announced, Alessandro, appreciating what this magnificent gift means to the city, offered his hand to supplement the compliment to the Cameron family. Thus, with trained dancers, and many of them, and the best aggregation of musicians in the city, the public is invited to be present to enjoy this anniversary celebration.

Much of the prejudice against present day ball room dances would be removed, were many to look into the history of the dance. There is now a decided tendency to go back to the rhythm of the dance as expressed by the body and not by the feet. The folk recognizes dancing. It has been the medium of emotions ever since. The folk-lore societies of England are doing much towards reviving the natural dances of peasantry. This movement is gaining. This dance revue out at Cameron park, the graceful sway of body on the green sward, is the first of this movement for our city.

MRS. J. F. WOOD HOSTESS FOR THE MESSES WATSON

Honoring the graduation of the Mesdames Naomi and Mattie Watson, from Baylor University, and for long friendship's sake, Mrs. J. F. Wood of South Fourth street was hostess on Tuesday evening. Was it the Russian, the apostle of beauty, or did Ruskin himself borrow the idea, when he said the daisy and the young girl should ever be associated? He makes beautiful comparison between the purity of the white leaves, the golden harvest of worthy womanhood and the blush of roseate life on the under petal, and the young girl thus with the first of the opened daisies in this season, Mrs. Wood provided the decorative features of her courtesy to the Mesdames Watson. The guests were friends in the University of her honorees. Owing to class engagements, the unbroken hour was deferred until late afternoon. The table found each corner a cluster of daisies which made way to the over-hanging electricity. The center basket overflowed with the Shasta's bloom. Daisies were brushed on the place cards, and daisy tones of white and gold found place in each of the four courses. The daughter in the home, Miss Ruth Wood, was assistant hostess. On the place cards were found the names of the Mesdames Naomi Watson, Mattie Watson, Louise Wilks, Marie Willis, Janet Allen, Beta Griffith and Ernestine Arnold. One clever little device gave accent to the daisy was the tea apron of the hostess embroidered in daisies; also the cluster of the natural blossom within her hair.

MRS. T. F. SMYTH HOSTESS FOR THE EMERSON CLUB

In closing their year, the Emerson club had the distinction of entertaining the literal five hundred guests; at least, the invitation list reached this proportion. The club members, 25 in number, were privileged each ten guests. The club returned courtesies extended from the Shakespeare and the Woman's Club as a whole. In addition the executive board of the City Federation was invited. Thus, the company grew. Many responded and each of this many received cordial greeting besides spending a pleasant half hour in congenial group. Mrs. T. F. Smyth offered her home and garden. It was here that the veranda was converted into a summer music room. The Mesdames Verda Lee McClain and Katherine Fitzhugh gave continuous music. The club nothing if not patriotic, hence the souvenir became sun flowers, the club floral emblem. These were held in basket by three little club daughters, Ruth Maxwell, Evelyn Le Bow and Millicent Smyth. At the punch bowl were the Mesdames Erin McDaniel and Ruby McClain. The club as a whole received formal retiring presents. Mrs. John M. Connor, and the incoming Mrs. W. L. Perry, giving first welcome. Pretty floral treat was given the garden both by permanent and temporary plants, blooms, in addition to this expression to a closing club year, the occasion paid patronage to the birthday of the club patron, Ralph Waldo Emerson. By pleasing weather provision, a cool breeze under cloud took place of the more uncomfortable sun. With their new year books in the hands of members, it is now vacation for the Emerson club. A delightful and successful year is added to the record of this congenial group of women.

BLISTERS ALL OVER BABY'S BODY

Itched and Burned. Clothing Irritated. Face Badly Disfigured. Used One Cake Cuticura Soap and One Box Ointment. Before Finished Trouble Was Gone.

Route 6, Huntington, Tenn.—"At three months old my baby broke out with blisters all over his body. They would form sores which we could not cure. They looked like burn blisters and they itched and burned so that it was almost impossible for him to sleep at night. Whenever he scratched them they would make a bad sore and his clothing irritated them so that he kept awake a greater part of the night. His face was badly disfigured.

"I got different kinds of salves but they didn't do him any good. Then I noticed an advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment so sent for a sample. They helped him so much that I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I would bathe him good in Cuticura Soap and apply the Cuticura Ointment twice a day before I had finished them the sores had entirely disappeared and the trouble was gone." (Signed) Mrs. Myra B. The other day we received the catalog of summer publications from the Macmillans. These are the authors made prominent: Winston Churchill, St. John G. Ervine, Arthur Stringer, Jack London, Elmer E. The first of the coming week will find Mrs. D. D. Fairchild week from Taylor for a few days with her sister, Mrs. Flora Cameron. This is an au revoir visit since Mrs. Cameron is leaving for the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Baird in Buffalo, from where more permanent plans for the season mature. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bolton remain at home until later in the season.

May we remind once more that Waco girls are delectable in their service as maids of honor. The multiplicity of the June bride here makes wedding talk timely. The maid of honor should be in the bride's home several days before the wedding. She should receive and register all gifts, attend telephone calls, prepare notes for the newspapers, and otherwise relieve the bride of the many distracting details incident to the important event.

How Gold Dust actually works for you

The active principle of Gold Dust is a valuable antiseptic cleansing agent.

It actually works. It gets into the corners and crevices where fingers and washcloths can't reach. It permeates and dissolves dirt, grease and grime everywhere and it cleans and brightens everything.

Gold Dust does all this—does this actual work—because it is made for that purpose.

Millions of women all over the country use Gold Dust three times a day in washing dishes. They use it also for scrubbing floors, washing windows, etc.

But they do not realize all the uses of Gold Dust. Gold Dust is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

Gold Dust cleans metal work, nickel, enameled ware, etc., without scratching or marring the surface—leaving it sanitariously clean, bright and new-looking.

The use of Gold Dust is an economy. There can be no waste when you use the exact small quantity required for each specific purpose. It is at once taken up by hot or cold water, forming the perfect cleansing solution.

No soap or other cleansing help is needed. Gold Dust does it all, and Gold Dust does its work far better than anything else can.

Use Gold Dust not only for washing dishes, but for washing bathtubs and bathroom fixtures, cleaning oil mops, cleaning and freshening linoleum and oilcloth, cleaning and brightening pots, pans and cooking utensils, giving luster to glassware—for every cleaning and brightening purpose.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

Gold Dust is as inexpensive as it is indispensable.

Sixty-five Dogs Shot Because Tax Had Not Been Paid

There are sixty-five fewer dogs in Waco today, as the result of the first execution yesterday afternoon under the ordinance denying a dog the right of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness unless his owner pays a tax to the city. A Winchester rifle was used by the executioner to dispatch the sixty-five homeless and ownerless dogs. Another sixty-five remain in the city bound to meet the same fate today or tomorrow unless some person meantime claims them and pays the license fee.

The sixty-five dead dogs and the sixty-five nearly dead ones are one of the results of the first three days of the operations of the dog catcher. Another result is shown, on the books of the city tax collector where owners of 291 dogs have certified to the right of their pets to live by paying the tax. Of the 291 tags issued, 17 are for female dogs.

Under the ordinance, the dogs are kept in the pound for three days after capture, when unless rescued they are shot. The powers that have decreed that the homeless dog must go, and many will go. Many more will be saved by the last dollar spent by some one to prove that his dog has a home and a master who regards his worth.

THE BROADER FIELD OF EDUCATION

In no field of endeavor have we made more rapid strides than in that of education. The educators of half a century ago would be startled by the activities of the modern university, were they suddenly summoned from the grave to the walks of present-day life, as they would be by the sight of an aeroplane or the work of the submarine.

An interesting description of the many things which modern education has come to include within its scope is contained in the address delivered by Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, former instructor in Columbia University, recent adviser to the Chinese republic and new president of Johns Hopkins University, on the occasion of his formal inauguration in the last-named position last week.

Dr. Goodnow said, in part:

"Just as the development of an approximately scientific medicine resulted in transforming medicine from a trade into a learned profession, so the development of the engineering sciences has made the engineer out of the artisan, the architect out of the builder and the scientific chemist out of the ignorant and credulous alchemist. At the present time, furthermore, new sciences and new learned professions are in the making, as the principles of science are being applied to domains which have not as yet fallen completely under their influence.

"Scientific agriculture is fast replacing rule-of-thumb methods in the tilling of the soil. The scientific forester is taking charge of the conservation and exploitation of our forests. The mechanical engineer is devoting his attention to the problems of shop and factory. The naval architect is taking the place of the shipbuilder. Perhaps the furthest point to which the scientific method has been pushed is to be found in the United States, where the new profession of efficiency engineer, as it is called, is claiming recognition. The efficiency engineer devotes himself to problems which not many years ago would have been regarded as unworthy the notice of an educated much less a learned man.

"At the present time it is possible to find as integral parts of the American university organization not only schools of engineering and architecture, but as well schools or departments of agriculture, pharmacy, dentistry, business administration, veterinary medicine, journalism, education and household arts and domestic science. In these schools instruction is given in subjects all of which were formerly regarded as unworthy of the attention of the learned man, as connected with a trade rather than a profession.

"The significance of this movement which has been so briefly outlined is that it consists in the application of scientific methods to the conduct of ordinary affairs of life and tends to raise trades and occupations to the dignity of learned professions. Many instructors in our institutions of learning occupy a position in the life of the community quite different from that which not so many years ago was accorded generally to the members of the teaching profession. The fact that our modern education has to do in such large measure with the phenomena of ordinary life has given to many of those who are engaged in teaching the position of experts. Their services are being more and more demanded by those in authority as advisers and counselors and the old idea that a university professor was engaged in the consideration of things having no bearing on practical life is fast being abandoned."

President Wilson's cool-headedness in all the serious diplomatic situations that have confronted this government recently has been a decided boost for grape juice without his intending it as such. No man who indulges in liquor could have kept as cool and clear head and steady nerve as the president has done.

Cromwell's exhortation to his soldiers to "Pray and keep your powder dry," might be paraphrased today to "Pray for health, but keep your fly-swatter going."

AMERICAS FOR AMERICANS.

As the keynote of Tuesday's session of the Pan-American conference on finance, commerce and transportation at Washington, Dr. Triana, delegate from Colombia, gave utterance to the following statement:

"We in America should be prepared to make our inviolability stronger every day. We have seen what that inviolability means by this war. There may be dark corners in the past history of this continent, but let us see that in the future our harmony is transparent. Let the dead past bury its dead. Let the nations here represented in solemn and formal fashion make it manifest that none of them covets the territory of another; that the homes and territory of each shall be sacred; that honesty, not convenience, guides the policy of the nations and that it is the flag of right we hold aloft as the flag of this continent. Then we can tell the other nations of the world that they may come to our fertile valleys, but as peaceful multitudes and not as conquerors."

And our Colombian neighbor is correct. The ideal which he holds forth for the Americas or the governments of this hemisphere is as lofty as that ideal which President Wilson has so often emphasized for this country, and it is the logical sequence of the Monroe doctrine, carried to its fulfillment. It is the duty of the United States not only to see that no foreign government imposes upon any government on this hemisphere, but that no government on this hemisphere shall be forced to go to any foreign government for any assistance it may need in the development of its resources or the preservation of its rights. The United States is rich enough and powerful enough to play the role of "Big Brother" to all of her southern neighbors and we are glad to see that the initial steps in this direction are being taken at the conference in Washington this week.

And while this government assumes this role of "Big Brother" to the other governments of the two American continents, she will not misuse this power to impose upon any of the weaker governments. Our neighbors are beginning to trust in our good faith and we will do well to promote rather than weaken that trust.

The great lesson the European war has brought home to the United States and to every other government in this hemisphere is that of greater self-reliance. Paul M. Warburg, member of the federal reserve board, told the delegates to the conference, and Mr. Warburg is correct. It is unwise for the world to place its financial dependence upon any single nation, he said, and the United States and her neighbors to the south should begin now and adopt a policy of greater reliance upon their own resources.

A great opportunity in many directions awaits the United States in the establishment of proper relations with the other republics of the American continents, but the duty to establish those relations is as great as the opportunity.

VINDICATING THE COYOTE.

We are indebted to Attorney General Looney of Texas for the following definition cited or given offhand in a recent ruling, says the St. Louis Post Dispatch:

A coyote is a wolf (attorney general's ruling).

A mule is a horse (Texas supreme court decision).

An automobile is a carriage (Texas appeals court decision).

The last two were cited to support the first, upon which this opinion was handed down: Therefore, if a mule is a horse and an automobile is a carriage, undoubtedly a coyote is a wolf, quite as much as a fox terrier or a greyhound is a dog.

Some too technical person, probably a foreigner lately removed to Texas from Massachusetts or Michigan, protested payment of wolf scalp bounties for the lifted headgear of coyotes, on the absurd ground that the coyote is not a wolf.

We concur unreservedly in the attorney general's opinion. We share his evident resentment of the emigrant's attempt to cast a slur upon the honorable ancestry of one of the first citizens of Texas.

The coyote is unquestionably entitled to inclusion in the wolf family, both because of his well known pedigree and because of his accomplishments. He, as any Southwestern boy is aware, can whip the average farm dog in a running fight, and can outrun any but the greyhound. He can do as much damage in poultry yard or sheep den, dollar for dollar, as the big grey wolf in the cattle pasture. He can outwalk a steam callopie, and, working in pairs, he can make a jack rabbit deliver itself into his waiting jaws. He has courage (when cornered), speed, wit and the special gifts of divination and sudden disappearance. He can tell a mile off whether the boy pursuing him on ponyback has a gun or hasn't. He can spy a buzzard flying so high no human eye could detect it, and can tell at a glance whether the buzzard is moving toward a dead cow critter or is merely keeping lonely vigil, hungry but hopeful. He knows poisons better than most drug clerks, and makes fewer mistakes in the use of them. He is loyal to his family, in his fashion, cleanly in his personal habits, is both humble and haughty upon proper occasions, is as proud of his singing voice as any lit-up cowboy that ever straddled leather and can estimate the speed of a horse better than its owner.

The Texas politicians and other wolves may try to reject him; we who have known him long and love him for his human faults shall never, never cry him down.

Texas will doubtless receive one benefit from Italy's participation in the war. This state has several spaghetti factories whose output ought to be enhanced from now on.

FARMERS AND MONEY.

The following editorial from the Houston Post expresses our convictions on the subject so clearly that we are reproducing it in its entirety:

"Nothing would afford the Post more sincere satisfaction than to have an opportunity to co-operate with Governor Ferguson in some reasonable endeavor to place within the reach of the farmers of Texas adequate facilities for borrowing money at a low rate of interest, but we see nothing in all this uproar over the Gibson bill that promises anything to the farmers who most need money. 'The day will come, no doubt, when the salvation of the small farmers—and most farmers are in that category—will be attained, but the glorious result will be far more attributable to their own efforts than to the statesmanship of those who so vociferously proclaim an interest in them.

"The average farmer in Texas cannot borrow life insurance money, for the reason that he does not possess the collateral. His homestead farm is not available for security and he rarely possesses stocks, bonds or mortgages. So the farmer must borrow of the banks or other money lenders until some better way to finance him has been devised.

"But even if some feasible way were devised, either by congress or the state, to lend longtime money to farmers at a low rate of interest, there would be multiplied thousands of them who could not meet the essential conditions of such loans.

"No government-lending scheme could ignore the question of security, and borrowers must have gilt-edge personal credit or security.

"The tenant farmer and the homesteader are not apt to profit permanently through the artificial devices and nostrums which plausible politicians invent for them. After all, the surest remedy for all their ills is to be attained through individual action.

"We know it is a thankless task for the daily newspaper to give advice in matters of this character, but the average farmer will find his credit in the day that he brings to his vocation the best methods that science is endeavoring to place at his disposal.

"When through diversification and living at home he emancipates himself from the slavery of the credit system, when he learns how to produce something almost every week of the year that can be sold for cash when he learns the vital importance of crop rotation, soil conservation, the use of plant foods according to the crop he would produce, the value of farm animals as a source of farm luxury, farm revenue and farm fertility, and the folly of purchasing at high prices the stock feed he ought to produce himself, the question of rural credits is not apt to keep him awake at night.

"We are not indulging theories.

"There are thousands of farmers in Texas who have solved the problem long ago. They live well at home. Their wives enjoy the comforts of good clothes and even many of the luxuries incident to farm life. When they want money they go to the bank, not to make a note, but to write a check for it.

"If anybody doubts this, let him visit any country bank in Texas and he can get a list of such farmers. These men have prospered under conditions which other men have found hard. Thousands of them started as tenant farmers, but it was through thrift, intelligent industry, determination, economy and the overlooking of no opportunity for farm profits, that they emerged from tenancy into the estate of farm owner. This is the certain way and the only certain way. If the vital thing is not in the man himself, no help will ever redeem him.

"Now if Governor Ferguson wants to emancipate these farmers or take a promising step in that direction, let him be sure to approve the items in the appropriation bill that provide for the extension service of the Agricultural and Mechanical College and the University.

"In that direction there will ultimately be found the solution of the average farmer's most pressing problems. This service will give real help to those who really want help and who will intelligently apply it.

"There is more ultimate relief in the extension service of these institutions for the farmers of Texas than in such measures as the Gibson bill or the limiting of farm rentals."

Yesterday's papers carried the story of a man who had lost his memory, recovering it when he was struck by a baseball. Now if you can just go a step further and start a crop of brains in some skulls where only vacuums exist at present by hitting men over the head with baseball bats the usefulness of the willow stick will be greatly enhanced.

Now that Venice is in the midst of the war-torn region, we have an idea that Dr. B. H. Carroll Jr., the U. S. consul there, is in his glory, for he was always fond of stir and excitement. We note that he has been given a young Texan for assistant, now that the work of his office is piling up, and we hope for him and all Americans the fullest safety from German bombs.

That "God helps those who help themselves" was intended to apply to the farmers as well as other people, and we doubt not but that it is as applicable to the question of credits and financial assistance generally, as to other things.

The latest shortage—attributable, we presume, to the war—is reported in chicle, out of which chewing gum is made. Now whose kick is it?

From present indications, the new wheat crop will turn loose dough of several varieties in this state within the near future.

CHIEF JUSTICE DIES
AT GREENVILLE TEX.

THOMAS J. BROWN PASSES AWAY
AFTER AN ILLNESS OF THREE WEEKS.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Has Held High Position Since 1911.
Former Representative From Grayson County.

Greenville, Tex., May 26.—Chief Justice Thomas J. Brown of the Texas supreme court, died in a hospital here today after an illness of three weeks.

Chief Justice Brown's home was in Sherman. He had been here for treatment for cancer of the stomach.

Funeral to Be Friday.

Sherman, May 26.—Funeral services for the late Chief Justice T. J. Brown will be held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. C. Chapman, North Crockett street, in this city, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in West Hill cemetery here.

Chief Justice Since 1911.
Austin, Tex., May 26.—Chief Justice T. J. Brown, of the supreme court, who died today at Greenville, left Austin for that city two weeks ago to undergo an operation for stomach trouble. At the time he left Austin he was in a feeble condition, and while the news of his death caused much sorrow here it was not unexpected by his close friends. He had been in failing health for several years.

Judge Brown had been chief justice since 1911, he having been appointed by Governor Campbell to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Chief Justice R. R. Gaines. He had been a member of the bench of the supreme court since May 31, 1893, when he was appointed by Governor Hogg to fill the unexpired term of Associate Justice J. L. Henry, resigned.

Just previous to his appointment as associate justice of the supreme court he had been appointed by Governor Hogg as chief justice of the fifth court of civil appeals, but before he qualified, Associate Justice Henry resigned from the supreme court.

Judge Brown was born in Jasper county, Georgia, July 24, 1836. He came to Texas with his parents when a youth. He was admitted to the bar from Brenham. For a number of years he had made his home at Sherman.

He served as a captain in the Confederate army. He was widely known throughout the state as a successful lawyer for many years before he was appointed to the supreme court, and had been a member of the fifth court of civil appeals, but before he qualified, Associate Justice Henry resigned from the supreme court.

In accordance with precedent Associate Justice Phillips will be elevated to the position of Chief Justice Brown. It is understood that the governor has selected the successor of Justice Phillips but no announcement of the appointment will be made until after the funeral of Justice Brown.

News of the death of Judge Thomas Jefferson Brown, chief justice of the state supreme court, was received with much regret in this city, where he was held in high esteem. Judge Brown was an alumnus of Baylor university, having graduated with the class of 1858. He was one of the oldest graduates at the time of his death. As a member of appreciation of his character and professional attainments, he was honored with the honorary degree of LL. D. in 1903.

At the chapel hour this morning President Brooks will name a committee to draw up an appropriate expression of the sense of loss which the university feels in his death.

This addition will be made during the summer months.

The following members of the past year's faculty have been re-elected for next year: Prof. D. J. McWilliams, superintendent; Prof. J. C. Boeg, principal; Misses Helen Robinson, Ricie McDonald, Roberta Falconer and Sibyl Woodland. GOVERNORS SHOULD HOLD PURSE STRINGS

THIS IS THE SUGGESTION FOR SAVING MADE BY JOHN J. FITZGERALD.

NATION COULD SAVE MILLIONS

Take Expenditures Out of the Hands of the Legislative Bodies His Plan.

Albany, N. Y., May 26.—John J. Fitzgerald, of Brooklyn, chairman of the appropriations committee of the house of representatives, told the finance committee of the constitutional convention today that the chief executives of state and national governments should be made chiefly responsible for budgets. He would not entirely strip the legislative houses of the right to create appropriations but he would make it extremely difficult for them to go beyond the executive estimate of needed expenditures.

"If a chance were given," Mr. Fitzgerald declared, "our national government could be conducted at from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 less yearly than it now costs."

The greatest hindrance to keeping down appropriations in the house of representatives, the speaker said, was that few congressmen cared what the budget totaled as long as they obtained the appropriations they desired.

Mr. Fitzgerald criticized the "paying of New York prices in the Sage Brush country for lots."

"How would you stop this practice?"

"Well, if we had a president who would veto one or two of these building appropriations once in a while it would help," he replied.

Former Senator Elihu Root frequently nodded his assent to Mr. Fitzgerald's statements.

Farnsworth and Earle in Conference With Temple Merchants

Temple, May 26.—A committee from the Retail Merchants' association, composed of A. F. Bentley, A. J. Jarrell and J. C. Dallas met in conference yesterday, with J. E. Farnsworth of Dallas, vice president of the Southwestern company and J. B. Earle of Waco, president of the Texas Telephone company, in regard to proposed consolidation of the exchanges of the companies in this city. Tentative agreements were made and will be put up to the city council for action. The position of the latter organization on the question is a matter of some doubt.

Holds Sunday Shows Are Violation of Law

Austin, Tex., May 26.—It was held today by a majority of the court of criminal appeals that it is a violation of the Sunday law of Texas to operate a moving picture show on Sundays even though no admission is charged or required by the proprietor of such show.

Judge Davidson did not concur in this opinion. This decision of the court was in the case of E. C. McLeod from Tarrant county, which was affirmed.

Appellant was the proprietor of a moving picture show at Fort Worth and in the trial of the case testified that no admission fee was charged and none required, but that a glass jar was placed near the ticket window for the purpose of receiving donations from persons who wished to donate on entering the show.

On Sunday, March 21, 1915, donations amounted to $29. The court held that the glass jar was only an evasion of the law, and it is clear that the legislature intended to prohibit any such place to be run on Sunday when it enacted the Sunday law and where a remuneration was received or accepted.

"The silent solicitor of contributions" is but a substitution for the ticket seller and such attempted evasion of the law cannot be countenanced," says the court, through Judge Harper who wrote the opinion.

PACKERS CONFIDENT WILL GET JUSTICE

WILL LEAVE INTERESTS IN DETAINED CARGOES IN HANDS OF BRITISH.

PROPOSE BASIS OF SETTLEMENT

England is Showing More Liberal Spirit in Examination of Detained Shipments.

Washington, May 26.—Satisfied that justice finally will be accorded them by Great Britain, representatives of Chicago packers tonight resolved for the present to leave their interests in detained cargoes of meat products in the hands of the British embassy officials here. They left tonight for the west.

A tentative basis of settlement for shipments held up by the British fleet valued in all at more than $15,000,000, has been cabled to London. Until approved by the British government the terms will not be made public.

One of the chief officers of the Packers was temporarily cleared today when Ambassador Page at London cabled that the cases of four ships and cargoes held up since last fall before the issuance of the order in council would go to trial in the prize court June 7 without further delay.

It was disclosed today that more than a month ago the packers stopped shipment of products to Scandinavian neutral ports similar to those detained by the British authorities on suspicion that they were destined ultimately for Germany or Austria. This action, it was declared, was taken as an evidence of good faith.

Relations Are Better.

London, May 26.—A decided change for the better has been noted this week in the relations between the British government and the representatives of neutral shippers whose cargoes have come under the ban of the orders in council.

The British government, it is claimed, is showing more in the examination of detained cargoes and more liberal spirit is being displayed in the interpretation of the rules covered by the order in council while shippers are said to be showing a greater spirit of acquiescence in the measures.

Among recent agreements was one providing that goods purchased in Germany before March 1 and arriving in Holland before May 15, consigned to The Netherlands, Netherlands Trust, might be shipped to America before June 1. This agreement has now been amended. By the new arrangement such goods may be shipped as late as June 15 in certain special cases.

The British government denies knowledge of any meat cargoes spoiling while in lighters in warehouses. The United States government has been informed that the cargoes of meat packers will be tried before the prize court June 7.

The Swedish steamer Syland from New York, May 15, which was taken into West Hartlepool May 23. Her valuable cargo of metals, machinery and food products will be thrown into a prize court.

The Dutch steamship Klebergen, from New York April 26 for Rotterdam, has been released at Kirkwall and allowed to proceed.

Holland Will Not Protest to Germany on Sinking Lusitania

The Hague, via London, May 26.—There is no intention on the part of Holland to send a protest to Germany with reference to the sinking of the steamer Lusitania by a German submarine, according to statements made today by highest officials here.

The Netherlands government, it was asserted, like every other government, feels the deepest horror over the sinking of the liner to the bottom, but as there is no direct evidence that any Dutch subjects lost their lives in the catastrophe no action can be taken simply on general humanitarian principles unless all the neutral nations agree to make a move together.

Even should Hollanders have been killed aboard the Lusitania, it was added, the matter probably would be settled by the payment of an indemnity by Germany after the usual representations.

Reports of Villa Victory Premature

Washington, May 26.—Reports of a decisive Villa victory over Carranza forces under Obregon, fighting about Leon as announced at Chihuahua by Villa's foreign minister, apparently were "premature" according to official advices today. Best information obtainable, the state department said, indicated the opposing armies had rested after a decided advantage to Villa's force and that the battle was resumed today.

The outcome of this conflict is expected to go far toward deciding military mastery in Mexico for the immediate future at least.

Advices from Frontera reported serious disturbances in Northern Tabasco with defeat for Carranza forces. Other advices told of fighting at Monclova with Villa forces attempting to recapture the town.

The Villa agency here announced it had reports claiming Monclova already had been taken.

WACOANS TO SPEAK AT STATE MEETING

MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION INVITED TO TAKE PART IN BUY IN TEXAS CONVENTION.

MCCULLOUGH OUTLINES PLAN

Directors Will Meet at Luncheon Tomorrow and Discuss Plans for Future Campaign.

In order to discuss plans for furthering the manufacturing interests of Waco, the directors of the Waco Manufacturers' Association will meet at luncheon tomorrow noon at the Hotel Waco. This was decided on at a meeting of the manufacturers held yesterday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

An invitation was received and read yesterday, inviting the local association to take part in the "Made in Texas" convention to be held in Fort Worth, June 22, 23 and 24, and to select two speakers from Waco. The call for the convention is signed by the state commissioner of labor, Mayor T. W. Fort Worth and the presidents of the Fort Worth and Dallas Chambers of Commerce.

Waco was one of the first cities, if not the very first, in the state of Texas, to inaugurate these home buying campaigns which, it is claimed, are doing so much to help the manufacturing interests. J. M. Penland, chairman of the Y. M. B. L. home industry committee, who has been in charge of the campaign, spoke briefly yesterday, urging the manufacturers to follow up now the good start that has already been made.

J. M. Rhoads, president of the Manufacturers' Association, said that everybody was pleased with the "Made in Waco" exposition, which he declared had been a surprise, even to the manufacturers themselves. Frank J. Trau, who handled the finances for the exposition, reported that everything had gone off in good shape.

It was urged by E. A. White that a regular meeting time be decided on, and it was the consensus of opinion that a luncheon, once or twice a month, would probably be the best plan that could be evolved.

Judge Tom L. McCullough, who attended the meeting by invitation, outlined some plans which he believed would work toward the upbuilding of Waco. He was invited to attend the luncheon tomorrow noon and to explain his ideas to the directors.

In the accompanying illustration are shown Thomas Nelson Page, the American ambassador in Rome, and Frederick C. Penfield, the American ambassador to Vienna. Italy has asked Mr. Penfield to look after her interests in Austria. Miss Frances McLaran of Waco Winner in Minatra Contest

Miss Frances McLaran of this city won first place and a cash prize of $25 in the annual Odie Minatra contest at Baylor University last night, all of the papers bearing upon the life and work of Frances E. Willard, under the rules of the contest. Second honors went to Miss Lois Upshaw of Dallas. Miss McLaran, the winner of first honors, is a member of the senior class.

Other speakers in the contest were Misses Landis Barton, Mary Edna Booth, Claraitha Copas and Estelle Coleman. Miss Hazell Parnell favored the audience with a piano solo and the glee club quartette with some special selections.

The judges pronounced all the papers good and the contest a very well balanced one.

As a result of the conference of the state executive board of the Y. M. C. A., held here Tuesday night, John L. Hunter, state student secretary, has agreed to accept the position of state boys' secretary, which it was decided to create at the convention recently held at College Station.

Mr. Hunter, whose present headquarters are at Dallas, formerly lived in Waco and has been a prominent Y. M. C. A. worker for a number of years. His friends will be pleased to hear of his being given the new position, which is considered a promotion.

State Secretary L. A. Coulter of Dallas has been asked to look into the matter of finding a successor for Mr. Hunter in his old position.

STORM TAKES TOLL IN LIFE AND PROPERTY

WACO AND THE SURROUNDING COUNTRY VISITED BY RAIN MIXED WITH HAIL.

NEGRO KILLED BY LIVE WIRE

Large Portion of Grain Crop Believed to Have Escaped—One House Is Torn in Two.

Hundreds of fields of ripening grain, waiting the harvest, were battered to the ground, window lights were broken in, outside electric lights put out of commission, wires blown down, damage done to many houses and one life lost, that of John Clark, negro, was the toll of the rain, hail and electrical storm which raged in Waco last night. The rain was general over the county, but early reports were that it hailed in only a few scattered spots.

Shortly after 7 o'clock last night the storm burst. Beginning with a few drops of rain, it gradually grew in intensity until hailstones, some of them as big as hen's eggs, covered the streets in many places. After about half an hour the fury of the storm passed away and the moon shone for a few hours. About midnight another gust of rain and hail, accompanied by much lightning, visited the city.

Reports received from the Texas and Southwestern Telephone companies were of rain and hail at McGregor, Mt. Calm, Axtell and West; rain at China Springs, Hubbard City, Riesel, Hillsboro, Bosqueville, Mart and Chilton; light rains at Waxahachie, Dallas and Fort Worth; no rain or hail at Rosebud, Lott, Bruceville, Penelope, Taylor, Moody, Lorena and Temple.

The residence of Foster W. Fort, 2500 Columbus street, was literally torn in two by the wind, and a portion of the house sent tumbling out into the yard. A big side door was broken at the Cameron residence, 1223 Austin avenue, and reports of broken windows were received from many portions of the city. In the downtown sections, the big hall stones broke a number of electric lights out of signs and did other damage.

Extensive damage was reported by Mohan the florist, Waco Floral and Nursery company and Wolfe the florist, mostly from broken glass. Mordis Falkner said last night that he feared the storm had damaged fruit and corn considerably. It hailed hard in that part of town. L. M. Sublett stated that hail as large as hen's eggs covered the streets in East Waco. Almost all the window lights were broken out of the residence of Mrs. R. Goldsmith, 417 South Eighth street.

It was hoped last night that much of the grain crop had not been injured, although that portion of it in the sections where the rain fell is sure to have suffered. John Gorham of Bosqueville said that up to a late hour last night no hail had fallen in that section and that much of the oat crop had already been cut. As McLennan county had a bumper grain crop in night this year, the effects of the hail on it was feared more than on anything else.

Stumbles Into Live Wire. John Clark, negro, met instant death at Twenty-eighth and Sanger about 11 o'clock last night, when he stumbled against a high-power wire brought down by the storm. The negro's injuries indicated that the wire first struck him across the chest, burning deeply. He was seized by the police and taken to the hospital, where he died. The forefinger being entirely burned off. The negro's clothing was still smoldering when the police and ambulance reached him. The body was brought to town by Undertaker L. C. Puckett and viewed by Justice J. J. Padgett.

Clark got off a Sanger Avenue street car late last night and started down Twenty-eighth to his home, near Twenty-eighth and Jefferson. He had not gone far until he struck the wire which caused his death. Trouble-shooters of the Texas Power and Light company cut the wire down without knowing that a man was lying near them dead from the 1100 volts which the current carried.

Dr. J. F. Bailey, who lives at 2701 Sanger, notified the police department of the accident and the city ambulance responded to the call. Puckett's ambulance later brought the body to town.

Clark was well known in Waco, where he had spent most of his life. He owned his own home at Twenty-seventh and Jefferson. He was a teamster, doing job hauling for gravel and cement contractors. He leaves a wife and several children.

Brazos Is Falling. At midnight last night the Brazos stood at 15 feet, and was falling slowly; ten-foot rise came down the river yesterday but passed off rapidly. Early yesterday morning the gauge showed 19.2 feet, at 7 a. m. the water had fallen to 18.8 feet and at noon to 16.8. Warning of the rise was given from the central station at Houston yesterday to A. E. Howell, river observer here. No danger is expected from the rise, despite the heavy rains last night.

While last night's hail was of longer duration than the very heavy one that fell here in May, 1904, the stones were not quite so large as those of eleven years ago, nor was the damage so heavy, especially in South Waco. In the hail-storm of 1904, which fell about the same time of night, the beautiful art glass dome of Carroll chapel, Baylor University, was smashed to pieces and the stones were of sufficient weight to penetrate a number of roofs of dwellings in South Waco.

Telephone service was considerably interrupted last night as a result of the heavy hail and rain.

"Y" Boys' Cabinet and Committee to Meet Friday Night

Auto Trips Will Be Taken to South Bosque to Plant Summer Camp.

Several parents of the boys have planned to take the trip with the cabinet and committee in automobiles. The meeting is held each year, usually out of doors, at which time the reports for the year are made and plans laid for the ensuing year. The boys' work committee consists of C. A. Boynton, chairman; T. S. Montgomery, B. Hood Hill, W. F. Quebe and Rev. E. E. Ingram. There are fifteen boys on the cabinet, consisting of a chairman and members of different departments. DEATHS

Chapman Infant Dies. John H. Chapman, 9-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Chapman, died at 4:20 yesterday morning, at the family residence, 625 Preston avenue. Funeral will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Whitbrook. The baby had been ill for about ten days.

CITY NEWS BRIEFS

About thirty-five more complaints were made before the county equalization board yesterday in regard to raising of valuations. Two more days are given in which property holders may lodge complaints.

With the approaching of June 1, when the balance of all city taxes must be paid to escape the penalty, collections at the city tax collector's office are rapidly increasing. All city taxes were due April 1, but the city commission voted to allow until June 1 to complete payment and escape the penalty, provided half of the taxes was paid on or before April 1. After June 1 the regular penalty will apply to all unpaid amounts of the tax.

A Simple Way to Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and after four more applications you will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and after four more applications you will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Unique Arrangement Shows Shirtwaists in Famous Window

"Look at those shirtwaists bobbing up and down," exclaimed a woman yesterday as she stopped before the big show window at the Famous. Through an electrical arrangement three lines of fancy new shirtwaists are made to rise and fall alternately. The exhibit is an unusual one and attracts much favorable comment from all who observe it. The Famous is conducting a special sale of these shirtwaists, hence the display.

Before the dance, Alessandro's band will render a selection from "The Spring Maid." Between the fourth and fifth dances, the band will give the prologue from "Pagliacci," following the last with the overture "Mignon." Ending the program, the band will play "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Letters from the People

How Socialist Would Save the Babies.

To the Waco Morning News: Something I ran across in a paper one day this week made me laugh. I feel real mean for laughing at a time when most of the sons of Mother Earth are divided into two hostile armies, each trying its best to spill the other's blood to the last drop, but the thing I ran across struck me with a tickle before I had time to reflect. It wasn't in the "Wit and Humor" column, either; nor the "Wise and Otherwise," nor the "Galley of Fun." It was a government bulletin from Washington.

What did the funny bulletin say? It said that corn has a much poorer chance to yield 100 bushels per acre on gravelly hillsides than on deep, rich, alluvial soil? No, it was funnier than that. Did it say that calves browsing on mesquite brush and cactus have a much poorer chance to live than calves having the run of fields and pastures and stalls for protection in winter? funnier still. It said:

"Babies of the poor have a much poorer chance to live than children of the well-to-do."

Think of our federal government sending out information (?) like that! Somebody a few years ago referred to Theodore Roosevelt as "the discoverer of the obvious," but when it comes to saying the most undisputed things in the most solemn way, our Uncle Sam himself swipes the rag and the bush and the whole thick when he gravely informs us that children who get sorry food to eat, sorry clothes to wear and sorry hovels to live in have a much poorer chance to live than children who get good food, good clothing and good shelter. It is almost like breaking the news to us gently that two and two are four.

When I had finished reading the bulletin I noted that the only suggestion as a relief for the suffering starving, dying babies was the employment of public nurses. And while that was good as far as it went, it was so hopelessly inadequate that it took all the laugh out of me. So long as stockholders, bondholders, landholders and other "holders" must continue to be supported as they now are by the tax-payers, somebody's babies must continue to die from poverty.

Remedy: Let the nation, carrying out the will of the majority, take over the tools, including all the larger industries and means of producing and distributing wealth. This will equalize the opportunities, it will broaden the opportunities, it will make permanent the opportunities for all persons who are able and willing to work to be well-to-do. The private owners of the industries offer nothing and cannot be expected to offer anything, to prevent the death by slow starvation of the children of the unemployed, disemployed, half-employed and half-paid working class, and the government itself is handicapped and can apply no remedy other than public nurses, labor bureaus, soup kitchens, and the like so long as it evades and shuns and shies around the one great, vital problem of ownership. The preponderance of little short graves in the sections of our city cemeteries where the poor are buried should make the hardest-hearted human cry out, "O God, if there be a God, why should this be so?" It might seem to one familiar with the professional activities of the Castles that Mrs. Castles could find little time for anything else except dancing, bobbing her hair and resting. That idea is erroneous. Now and then she even indulges in the writing of poetry. But, getting down to cases, Mrs. Castle has written a

It is entitled "My Jewels," and here it is: "There are goldfish that gladden and shine in the light, and swim round and round from morning till night, in a crystal bowl, like a bubble in the air. And these, dear child, make my world seem fair. There's a bird that hangs in the window, too, in a little cage all painted blue. And chirps and sings, and if he were gone, my word, dear child, would miss his song. There's a little dog named Kickapoo, whose love for me is strong and true. And his only wish is to be with me. So there are my jewels, dear child, you see." New York letter to the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

SEVENTH AND AUSTIN STREETS

If the good old days of horse racing come back in New York, society will figure a lot in their revival. At the opening day of the spring meeting at Belmont park, on Long Island, society was out in large numbers. It is plain that society has taken up the sport in earnest. In the accompanying illustration is shown Miss Barbara Rutherford, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Sr., in a unique pose on the clubhouse lawn.

TEXAS POSTMASTERS' LEAGUE CHOOSES OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Joint Convention of Closely Related Organizations Ends Today—Many Interesting Addresses Delivered—Reception at Country Club Called Off on Account of Storm.

An interesting program of addresses by prominent members of the Texas Postmasters' Association, and election of officers by the Texas Postmasters' League yesterday afternoon, closed the second day of the joint convention of the two organizations in Waco. Yesterday afternoon the visitors were taken in automobiles for a sightseeing trip over the city which included Cameron park and the river drive. Last night the postmasters and their ladies were to have been guests at a reception at the Country Club, making the trip to the club house in automobiles from the postoffice at 8 o'clock but the storm caused it to be called off.

Officers elected yesterday afternoon by the Texas Postmasters' League, which was only in session a few minutes following adjournment of the association, were as follows: President, S. G. Dean of Haskell, re-elected; secretary-treasurer, Sam G. Reid, of Oglesby, re-elected; first vice president, Mrs. C. M. Brooks of McCaulley; second vice president, Mrs. R. J. Ellis of Rotan; third vice president, Sam B. Brown of McGregor; fourth vice president, H. M. Stephenson of Breckinridge; fifth vice president, A. Thomas of Chandler. The Texas Postmasters' League is composed of postmasters of third and fourth offices, the Texas Postmasters' Association of first and second class.

The program yesterday afternoon included addresses by George D. Armistead of Dallas, J. T. Cox of Groesbeck, B. F. Mitchell of Gainesville, and Captain William A. Fields of Hillsboro. In his address, Captain Fields referred to the agitation of rural carriers to obtain more pay, deprecating what he termed the apparent effort of the organized rural carriers to criticize the national administration and the head of the postoffice department. He expressed a desire that the Texas Postmasters' Association adopt a resolution expressing disapproval of the agitation. George D. Armistead, chairman of the committee on resolutions, invited Captain Fields to submit his resolution at the meeting of the committee on resolutions, which was held at 7 o'clock last night.

Yesterday morning President S. S. McClelland of Tyler delivered his annual address, and an address was made by E. H. Jennings, secretary of the civil service commission, New Orleans. Addresses were also made by Shaw D. Ray of Winnsboro, assistant secretary of the association, and by R. E. Spoor of Fort Worth. The remainder of the session was devoted to the question box, a number of questions covering all phases of the postal service being discussed.

Conventions Close Today. Following the meetings this morning and this afternoon, the convention of the association will come to an end. The league completed its sessions with the election of officers yesterday afternoon. The association will elect officers and select the place of next meeting this afternoon. Thus far Orange and Fort Worth are making a strong bid for the two organizations next year.

At the meeting of the association yesterday afternoon formal welcome from the Waco letter carriers was extended to the postmasters by Fred Obenchain, president of Waco local No. 404, National Association of Letter Carriers, who were present in a body. The following communication bearing the seal of the local and signed by I. C. Anderson, Thomas V. Carr-son. On the right is my visible authority for holding the office, the commission of Albert S. Burleson. Directly in front, so placed that I cannot raise my eyes without beholding it, is the old flag, every star that gleams from its folds adjuring me that I am one of those helping to make it, every stripe reminding me of the fact that, in the splendid thought of Secretary Lane, the emblem of the nation is for just what the people behind it stand.

"Kipling has written:

"Four things greater than all things are—

"Women and horses, and power and war."

"As to the ladies, every Texan will agree. But the rest is mere fancy, poetic license. Above horses, and power and war, would add knowledge, enlightenment and culture. And above all, the thinking men of this age put SERVICE.

Keen Edge Is Needed.

"Without service of the right sort there comes stagnation and then chaos. This applies to every human undertaking. It applies with peculiar force to the work of the postal system. When through listlessness or indifference of a few employees on the keen edge is worn off the service in our work you postmasters hear from it and of it weeks and months after. A little carelessness on the part of a clerk or carrier during the fraction of a minute, a thousand employees of the department may, sooner or later, be called on to rectify the blunder. No type of organized effort requires a more steadily applied and intelligent service. The postal work depends absolutely for its efficiency, for its popularity and for its worth on service.

"A bane to service of the right sort that I encountered the very day I became postmaster was inability to fix responsibility. It was next to the impossible to locate the source of an error, no matter how glaring, no matter what its making cost. I didn't do it. I can't tell you, would come from every employ who had had even a shadow of the opportunity to make the mistake under investigation.

"This had resulted, in my office, and I dare say, in all other offices where anything like our number of employees are at work, in frequent and utter indifference to consequences. The careless ones figured that they could never be caught. The good ones were powerless and at the mercy of those who preferred negligence to service as I understand it. No patron of my office failed to find fault. It was to lay complaints before me in person. That system, coupled with the blunders, at times caused me to seriously wish that I had never heard of a postmaster's office.

"It became absolutely necessary to effect a change. Fixing of responsibility was imperative. We have fixed it so far as most of our clerks and carriers are concerned. Before we finish anybody's blunder will be traced to the blunderer without the waste of a minute and without a chance of being mistaken.

Numbered Stamps Used.

"Numbered stamps, one for every clerk in both general delivery and delivery sections, were gotten after delay and insisted upon from the department. They were tried out a month ago and they will be an adjunct of the San Antonio office as long as I am an adjunct. The man or woman in these sections who handles a letter leaves his imprint in the form of the stamp number. If it is misread or misapplied, anything save prompt and accurate handling results the offender is called on the carpet.

"But I have been absolutely astonished and pleased beyond measure by the results. The errors in the stamps were innumerable. The cases where mail has been improperly handled by clerks armed with stamps have been so few and so negligible that I can scarcely mention them. These marking stamps, service and satisfaction have become synonymous terms in my office.

"There are errors still many, but the distribution of stamps is no longer impossible at all times to have these men use the numbered markers because with the distribution of stamps is frequently urged. But there are colored crayons that may be used to advantage and unless we find a more feasible way, these little detectives will be put into use. If they have already been bought, it is easy to get a line on a carrier, for he leaves by the nature of his work a plain trail of course, right and wrong, and the carrier is bound to have blunders made by them pass unnoticed. When we arrive at a solution for checking the distributing clerks, the exceedingly important office will have been accomplished. It is entirely possible many of you may have found out these things for yourselves.

"On the left on my work desk there hangs a photograph of Woodrow Wil-

Postmaster A. N. Justis, secretary-treasurer of Texas Postmasters' Association, who speaks at convention this morning.

When they work together there will be service to the last essential detail and the stars in the flag will beam all the brighter because of it.

Postal Savings System.

Intracacies of the postal savings bank system were explained in a brief and valuable address by Postmaster H. M. Burgher of Dallas. The absolute safety of money deposited with the government with the widespread confidence in this fact, were given by Postmaster Burgher as the reasons for the growth of the postal savings system during the first years of its existence. During the last eight months, said Mr. Burgher, deposits in the postal savings banks have increased from $3,000,000 to more than $19,000,000, and he brought out the fact that the feeling that was the result of the beginning of the European war, according to Mr. Burgher, beginning July 1, postal savings deposits may be made by mail, thus opening up the great field of rural deposits. This will materially increase the deposits, Mr. Burgher believed, and he was also convinced that it would be to the interest of the department to remove the restrictions as to amount deposited at one time and total amount, allowing depositors to place as much in the postal banks as they might desire.

The workings of the system were explained thoroughly by Mr. Burgher. The postal savings bonds, in which twenty years from now, after the limit of $500 is reached, offer a desirable investment for the small investor, according to Mr. Burgher. These bonds, he said, are non-transferable and not subject to garnishment.

Difficulties and annoyances by co-operation between postmasters and patrons, were dwelt upon by Postmaster J. T. Cox of Groesbeck, in a humorous paper, the refrain of which was: "All you've got to do is look wise and make a show. As well, I remember the carrier would start on his route with perhaps eight or ten letters and ten or fifteen papers. He could put them in his coat pocket. In fact, the carrier put all his mail in his coat pocket to keep it dry and all of his papers in his hip pocket to keep them dry."

"The system has grown until I think the people would rebel if it was taken away from them. You can say in connection with the first route, Monroe Henson was forced to keep a horse on account of the roads. I think that rural free delivery has had more to do with the building of good roads than any other one thing. I also remember that the five routes that were only a few papers taken but after the people saw it was a go, all papers doubled in subscription. It is and will be one of the best steps towards education there is in the farmer in getting the prices before he goes to the market the same day. It has caused many a boy to take up chicken and truck raising.

You can remember me to all the postmasters and say to them I would like very much to have attended their convention. HARRY BECK.

Fort Worth After Convention.

One of the most interesting events in the Postmasters' Association is choice of the next place of meeting. Fort Worth is a very aggressive applicant for the next place for the convention, and to show that the Panther City is really in earnest and wants the postmasters the Chamber of Commerce of Fort Worth, a special representative of the Chamber of Commerce of Fort Worth, armed with invitation and reasons why the convention should go to Fort Worth, met the delegates to the convention at the hotel where a gentleman of genial personality, and he represents a city in which welcome is always spelled with capital letters. According to Mr. Hines, already enough people who are delegates to the convention have assured him of their support to make him feel reasonably sure that the next convention will be held in Fort Worth.

Besides being located in the heart of the great north central part of Texas, Fort Worth has an auditorium that has splendid acoustical properties, is located in the very center of the city, affording every convenience for the delegates attending the convention. Mr. Hines is distributing postal card souvenirs of the city of Fort Worth, and those who have not received one are welcome, and will be very glad to furnish one to you if they will make their desires known.

It is becoming more and more popular to meet in a large city because of the many pleasures and conveniences afforded that a smaller place cannot give.

Mr. Hines promises a unique and splendid entertainment at this time, and those who have heretofore accepted the hospitality of Fort Worth know that the promises of representatives of that city are always kept strictly to the letter.

W. J. Stilwell Dies

From Heart Trouble

"Bill Stilwell is dead!" These were the words passed from mouth to mouth yesterday morning as printers gathered for their day's work in newspapers and job printing plants in the city. Posted on the chapel bulletin board in the composing room of the Morning News this simple announcement conveyed the sad news information that one of the most beloved members of the craft was no more.

W. J. Stilwell, age 34, died at 3:30 yesterday morning at his home, Eleventh and Barron street. Saturday morning he suffered a heart stroke in the composing room of the Waco Times-Herald where for three years he had operated a linotype machine. Later in the day he was removed to his home, and had since improved to such an extent that he had planned to take a drive yesterday afternoon. The fatal attack seized him yesterday morning as he was in the act of sitting up to take some medicine. He died before a physician could reach his bedside.

The remains were sent to Rogers, Texas, the home of his wife, yesterday afternoon, where burial will be made today. Mrs. Stilwell was accompanied on her sad mission by J. J. Hutchison, foreman of the Times-Herald composing room.

Mr. Stilwell's ability in his chosen profession, as well as his personal charm, were recognized throughout his section. He was at the time of his death serving as president of the Waco Typographical union—only one of the many evidences of the esteem and confidence in which he was held by his fellow craftsmen. He had several times represented his home union in the higher councils of the International Typographical union.

Beside his wife, Mr. Stilwell is survived only by his father, who lives in Temple, Texas.
